FGM salutes the Class of '93

Thirty seven members of the F.G. Miller High School Class of '93 looked back in love and forward in anticipation as they celebrated the completion of twelve years of education with nearly 900 friends and family members at last Saturday's graduation exercises.

The packed gymnasium was decked with purple, turquoise and black streamers, the ceiling done in a tent effect with purple and iridescent banners. Clouds and balloon bouquets on the side walls echoed the black and purple balloons decorated with each graduate's name that framed the stage.

Master of Ceremonies was former classmate Tim Chalmers, who spent Grades 5 to 7 with these students and had been invited back to join them on this auspicious occasion. Denise Adkins opened the afternoon with O Canada. The students entered through a balloon arch at the rear of the gymnasium and followed an aisle of spotlights as they took their places on stage to the processional, "A Whole Wide World" by Peabo Bryson and Regina Belle.

The invitational prayer was offered by Tobey Conrad and Tennille Anderson.

Kimberley Miller and Kara Serniak offered the first of two vocal numbers by the graduands, with their rendition of Suzy Boggus' "Letting Go" bringing a tear to more than one eye. Their song was fittingly dedicated to the parents who will be 'letting go' of the graduates as they enter the adult world.

Principal Jim Hawkins said he was "pleased to recognize the achievements of this group," noting that the showcase jammed with pictures from over the years illustrated the many moments in time these students have enjoyed. He congratulated the students who have achieved high standards academically and in other fields during their high school years. In addition to those on stage, Hawkins said, there are three other members of the class, Erica Gadwa, Richard James and Mary Masse. "Having completed your high school studies, you are now at the crossroads. At the end of Grade 12, there are many roads which you can take."

Valedictorian was Suzanne Rae, who thanked the parents and teachers for all their efforts over the years. "Finishing high school is one of the most influential stages of life...there are many more experiences awaiting us...how we handle the changes in the future will reflect all we have learned," she told her classmates.

A slide show, featuring photos of the grad class ranging from their kindergarten days to the present and entitled "One Moment In Time," was dedicated to former classmate Tracy Bepalko, who along with her sister Carrie, perished in a vehicle accident during their elementary school years.

Mayner receives federal award

Frank Mayner, a longtime member of the Elk Point Historical Society, has received the Lescarbot Award of Honor presented by the Government of Canada in recognition of outstanding contributions to community cultural activities. The presentation of the certificate and pin was made by Member of Parliament Deborah Grey on May 18.

Mayner was nominated for the award by Alberta Historic Sites and Archives Service, Alberta Culture and Multiculturalism because of his involvement over the past decade in promotion of the development of Fort George - Buckingham House Historic Site as a major attraction in northeast Alberta. As Historical Society President, Mayner was instrumental in applying for the grant which resulted in the construction of the Interpretive Centre and signage at the original sites of the two hundred old forts. Since that time, he has worked with an advisory board which was involved in planning, overseeing construction and site development.

The award is given out by the Federal Department of Communication, with one presented in each federal riding. National and regional level awards are also presented.

In making the presentation, MP Grey expressed thanks to Mayner for his efforts which have resulted in a unique preservation of the area's history. In addition, she presented a certificate from herself, congratulating him on his achievements.

Chamber presents decorating awards

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce presented awards to the winning businesses in the "Get Western! '93" decorating contest held the week prior to the original date of the Spring Classic Stampede. Businesses were judged on such criteria as indoor appearance, outdoor appearance, way in which the decor promoted the rodeo, unique use of theme, effort required and staff participation. Both the Chamber and the Rodeo Committee of the Agricultural Society were very pleased with the number of businesses who participated.

First prize went to Woody's Trophies and Gifts, whose business was 'dressed western' inside and out. Glenn Harms, who accepted the trophy, is also the Agricultural Society President, and thanked the Chamber for supporting the rodeo by sponsoring the contest. "The committee was so proud to see the number of stores that dressed up."

Certificates were presented to second prize winner, Dave's Pizza, accepted by Sally Henry, and to two businesses which split third place honors, the Town of Elk Point, accepted by Curt Svendsen, and the Elk Point Review, accepted by your editor.

A good example of cross promotion between Chamber members has already taken place: Elk Point Insurance and Realty has offered to insert Fort George - Buckingham House Interpretive Centre brochures in with their outgoing bills.

The Chamber's Economic Development Committee met May 12 with Max Edgar of the Northern Alberta Development Council, Dave McCarthy of Northern Development and Jean Chagnon of St. Paul - Smoky Lake Community Futures. A list and the format for a brainstorming meeting is being formulated.

Alberta Best is coming to Elk Point. Two evening sessions for staff will be held in Elk Point, while two similar sessions for management will be held in St. Paul in early June. President Louise Crane will be contacting members to encourage their management and staff to attend the courses, so Elk Point can offer the highest quality service to both residents and visitors to the region.

Heather West of Northern Lights Library System introduced the System's new full-color photocopier to the Chamber, and said the service would be available to businesses in the area. Northern Lights was praised for their community involvement, and were called a definite asset to Elk Point.

Sid Holthe reported that several Elk Point delegates had attended the Ruralize '93 conference in Vegreville and found it very worthwhile. Elk Point would like to host the conference, aimed at volunteers in rural areas, next year.

Holthe also reported that a retirement party will be held for MLA John Drobot on May 27 in St. Paul, and expressed hopes that many Elk Point residents will attend.

President Crane and Billie Milholland will be attending a meeting on heritage tourism regions, sponsored by Heritage Canada, and the Alberta Historical Society Annual Meeting in Lac La Biche May 27 to 30.

Pancake grills for the annual Canada Day Breakfast were discussed. There are several potential funding donors, if such a grill can be obtained. The grill could be rented to interested groups as an income generator for the Chamber.

A question was raised regarding the article on tax exempt properties which appeared in the Review. Town Administrator Curt Svendsen said the figures were published because Mayor Buck and the Council wanted the population to know how much property in Elk Point is exempt, and how much tax revenue these properties would bring in if taxable. It was stressed that the majority of these parcels are exempt under the Municipal Government Act, which does not permit the Town to charge taxes on the property. These parcels include the hospital, churches and recreational facilities such as the arena. However, Svendsen said that a government white paper is in the works which, if passed at some time in the future, could give councils the right to tax such properties at their own discretion.

What's Happening At COMMUNITY SERVICES

Get set to participact

Wednesday, June 2 is the Great Participation Challenge - so dust off your sneakers, Elk Point, and get ready to take part in this Canada-wide fitness event! While Elk Point's Participation Committee has not planned any specific events this year, they are hoping all residents will take the initiative to do fifteen minutes of an active living activity, then phone Community Services at 724-3800 between 8:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. to have your name and activity recorded. Every fiftieth caller will win a prize! We have Participation t-shirts and more for some lucky participant!

Don't let the term "Active Living" fool you into thinking this is only for those who take part in really ambitious sports like running, aerobics or weight lifting. Those are fine - but so are gardening, mowing your lawn, walking for the mail, riding your bike to work, coaching or playing ball, or enjoying a round of golf. It's as easy as that!

Last year Elk Point had only 36 percent of the population took part in Participation. Let's get this figure up, and maybe next year we can challenge another town.

If you require additional information, or if you just need a new, creative idea, give Lynn a call at the Community Services office. Let's show everyone that Elk Point can be as active as all the other towns in the area.

TIME IS RUNNING OUT!

The North East Alberta Summer Games are quickly approaching and plans are underway to make it a weekend with something special for people of all ages and interests. The deadline for athletes and teams to register is Friday, June 11. Registration forms and additional information are available at Community Services (724-3800).

SENIORS: A STRENGTH OF ALBERTA

Everyone is invited to take part in the many festivities and special activities during Seniors Week, June 6 - 12.

The week is an opportunity for Albertans to recognize the enormous contributions made by seniors to strengthen our families, our communities and our province as a whole.

The theme of Seniors Week is Seniors: A Strength Of Alberta. We are fortunate to have 230,550 seniors living in our province, and it is easy to see how older Albertans make our province stronger.

Seniors have a wealth of experience. They are active as business people, entertainers, writers, teachers, and in dozens of our endeavors.

Older people are a vital part of our families. They provide emotional support and advice, financial support and often help out with babysitting, housework and yard work.

Many seniors are active volunteers working to help Albertans of all ages. Many participate in programs for seniors such as Meals-On-Wheels, seniors' clubs and centres, and educational courses.

The vast majority of seniors are healthy and living in their own homes. More and more seniors are independent and active.

Seniors have a wide array of interests, skills and backgrounds. There are hundreds of interesting and talented seniors in communities across the province.

Seniors Week is a wonderful opportunity for Albertans of all ages to meet and learn more about seniors. It is a time to keep older people in touch with youth and to acquaint young people with older adults.

It is also an opportunity to honor seniors for their contributions to the past and future of our province.

Join us in celebrating Seniors Week, June 6 to 12.

ELK POINT CHILD CARE SERVICES

Child Care Subsidy Available to Low Income Wage Earners:

If you are looking for child care and would like to use an approved Family Day Home but feel the cost is too much for your budget, there are a couple of things you can do.

1. Every parent has the right to call the Government Office in St. Paul and ask for Pen at 645-6228. Be prepared to give her the total amount you earn each month and she will be able to tell you how much Government Subsidy you would qualify for when you use an approved Family Day Home for your child care.

2. Drop in at the Community Services Office and ask for a booklet entitled "Alberta Child Care Subsidy Program Parent Guide." If, after reading this booklet, you find you have questions, call Deanna Easthope, Coordinator of Elk Point Child Care Services anytime at 724-3933 or on Fridays at the Community Services Office at 724-3800.

JACK AND JILL PLAYSCHOOL

Jack and Jill Playschool is a program for 3 1/2 to 5 year olds. The first class will start Thursday, September 16, 1993. There are still some available spaces in the afternoon sessions, which run Tuesdays and Thursdays from 12:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. If you would like more information regarding the programming, please contact the Community Services Centre at 724-3800.

WHERE TO GET ADVICE AND WHEN TO IGNORE IT

One thing is for sure, asking the advice of people who are sharing the same experience has its limitations. It is good to have advisors from different walks of life.

Don't always go to people who are "like you." They may not be able to add more knowledge or perspective to what you already know. Good advice often comes from unlikely places, and an opinion can take on a rewarding new meaning when you drop it into a new context.

Don't rule out advice from books, magazines, television, or movies. These can be good sources of information.

Know something about the people whose advice you are seeking. You will need some background to provide you with a perspective for what they say.

Don't let advice make up your mind. You are responsible for your own decision. Other people can help you fine-tune your own thinking - and that's what advice is all about!

Editorial

Our Past

By Steve Andrishak

Many of our older residents probably still remember the date of June 2, 1939, the day King George VI and Queen Elizabeth visited Edmonton. The Royal Tour began in eastern Canada during the latter part of May and worked its way westward. It marked the first time that a ruling British monarch had visited Canada.

During the days preceding the Royal Visit, many Edmontonians were busy decorating the streets with flags, bunting and banners in preparation for this great event.

The day of the Royal Visit brought many special trains, buses and motor cars all loaded with adults and children. Prior to the Royal Visit, Edmonton City Council decided to rename Portage Avenue to Kingsway Avenue, since it was to be one of the main routes of the Royal Visit. They also thought it would be fitting to honor the Royal Couple in this manner.

Hundreds of wooden bleachers were built along Kingsway Avenue and all of them were filled to capacity, allowing everyone a good view of the upcoming Royal procession.

The afternoon of June 2 turned out to be a hot, clear day, ideally suited for such a memorable event. Earlier that day, the King and Queen had arrived from Jasper, Alberta and were greeted by James J. Bowlen, the Lieutenant Governor, William Aberhart, the Social Credit Premier of Alberta, and by John Fry, the Mayor of Edmonton. Shortly after, the cavalcade was formed. It included many Royal Canadian Mounted Police all decked out in their scarlet tunics. Also included were many brass bands and many other dignitaries besides the Lieutenant Governor, the Premier and the Mayor of Edmonton.

The Royal Procession started on 82 Avenue (Whyte Avenue) and wended its way down 109 Street, passing the Legislative Buildings and then making its way toward Kingsway Avenue where thousands of people awaited its arrival. Many people unable to find room in the stands took up positions near windows and on rooftops.

Sitting in the bleachers, many of us thought the procession would never arrive, however after a long wait, it was sighted a few blocks away. There were many brass bands in attendance, all providing lively band music while the Royal Couple approached. Finally the long awaited open air convertible arrived carrying the King and Queen. The Royal Couple waved and smiled as they passed and were soundly cheered by everyone in attendance. It seemed only a minute for the procession to pass our bleachers. Shortly after, the huge crowds left the stands and Kingsway Avenue seemed to be a sea of people. It was assumed that about 250,000 people greeted the King and Queen in Edmonton that day.

After the Royal Tour was completed, the King and Queen were driven to the Macdonald Hotel where they were billeted. After a short afternoon rest, the Royal Couple and the many dignitaries attended a lavish dinner given in honor of their Majesties by William Aberhart, the Premier of Alberta - a dinner that was later described as being the most lavish of all dinners given for the Royal Couple during their entire Canadian tour.

Many of the visitors wanted a second look at the Royal Couple and gathered on Jasper Avenue near the Macdonald Hotel. This area was so crowded with people you could hardly move. It didn't matter which way you turned, you kept bumping into people from Elk Point. It seemed that half of Elk Point and district was in attendance. Later in the evening, the King and Queen made another appearance, this one from the hotel balcony, and again they were soundly cheered.

During the Royal Visit, all hotels and rooming houses were filled to capacity. Anyone with thoughts of staying over to the next day did so only if they were billeted in some private home. Some of us did manage to stay over to the following day and watched as the Royal Train left for Saskatoon and points east.

The many souvenir shops were all loaded with Royal Visit souvenirs and many people came home with a variety of keepsakes which included cups and saucers, flags, banners and other Royal Visit items. These souvenir shops did a land office business, bringing millions of dollars of business to the city.

To many of us, the Royal Visit of 1939 was one of the highlights of our lives. There have been many Royal Tours since the one of June 2, 1939, but never has one so captivated so many hearts as the one we were so fortunate to attend in 1939.

BIENVENUE, JOSEE - Director of Visitor Services Louise Crane (right) welcomes new staff member Josee Perrom of Jonquiere, PQ, to the Fort George - Buckingham House Interpretive Centre.

From the Forts

By Louise Crane

At Fort George - Buckingham House Interpretive Centre, there were many objects or artifacts buried in the ground around the sites of the forts. An artifact is any object made by human hands. It took very careful digging, knowing where to dig, how far down in the ground to go and what clues to look for, to find these objects and understand what they mean.

The archaeologists who worked at Fort George studied the diaries and journals of the fur traders who lived at Fort George. These sources provided information about what types of buildings were constructed and where they were built. Much of the resulting information now forms the various displays in the Interpretive Centre and the core of the school programs.

Fort George - Buckingham House Interpretive Centre will be hosting a new program, Discovering the Past. It consists of a slide show and a hands-on simulated dig.

In conjunction with the program, archaeologist Heinz Pyszczyk will give a talk June 17, 7 p.m. at the Elk Point Library. He will talk about his experience at Fort George, why historical archaeology is so important and why it was done at Fort George - Buckingham House.

Everyone is welcome. For further information about this program or any others, please call Fort George - Buckingham House at 724-2611.

Quebec exchange student is addition to interpretive staff

Interpretation of the fur trade era at Fort George - Buckingham House is now available in both English and French, with the addition of Quebec resident Josee Perrom to the Interpretive Centre staff.

Ms Perrom is a 1993 graduate of the University of Quebec at Chicoutimi, and will be at the Forts for three months as part of the Quebec - Alberta Student Employment Exchange Program. She will be one of the interpretive staff, guiding tours first in French, and eventually in English. A total of 45 students from Quebec are working in Alberta this summer under the program, with others in the northeast region employed at Bonnyville and Vegreville.

This is Ms Perrom's third visit to Alberta. She has worked in Banff during the last two summers.

Her home is in Jonquiere, two hours north of Quebec City, and while the terrain there is similar to ours, Ms Perrom said our roads are much straighter, and people here drive much larger cars, no doubt because gasoline in her hometown, population close to 60,000, is 57 cents per litre. She finds the people here friendly, and is enjoying her new experience.

Election call for June 15

They're off and running.

Premier Ralph Klein made the election call last Tuesday setting June 15 as the day Albertans will head to the polls.

In the new Lac La Biche - St. Paul Constituency the three party candidates have shifted their campaigns into high gear.

New Democrat candidate Eugene Houle told The Journal Friday he's expecting strong support in the Lac La Biche region. He's only been on the campaign trail for a few days but he sees the town of St. Paul as being basically a two-man battle between Liberal Paul Langevin and Progressive Conservative John Trefanenko. As a result, he plans to concentrate his efforts in this end of the riding on rural residents.

"It looks like a dog war between the PCs and Liberals in St. Paul," Houle said. "I'm looking at larger rural support."

The former chief of Saddle Lake (1985-1987) will also be campaigning for the native vote in the riding.

"I've been involved in native politics all my life," Houle said, adding that while reserves are under federal jurisdiction, "we are impacted by provincial policies and regulations."

Liberal Paul Langevin has been on the campaign trail since late last year and said he's glad Klein "finally" set a date.

"People will have to make up their mind if they want more of the same," Langevin said.

"I believe it's time for a change, it's getting critical."

Progressive Conservative John Trefanenko has been putting in long hours campaigning since he won the nomination a month ago.

"My team and I are trying to get to as many people as we can."

With 53 new candidates province-wide, Trefanenko said the PCs are campaigning as a new and enthusiastic team.

Returning officer Linda Ference has her work cut out for her now that the election is on. Training deputy returning officers and poll clerks to work at the 55 polling stations is one of the biggest challenges facing her.

Ference said people who weren't enumerated can still get their names on the voters list. The enumeration revision period runs now until June 5. People who were missed can drop by the returning office in the St. Paul Provincial Building to have their names included.

bright sunshine on Victoria Day Monday as they attended an informal gathering at the newly discovered Mont Croix Historic Site, located 5 km east of Heinsburg.

The site was discovered last August, when the remains of a forty foot cross and a small lead-wrapped bottle were found while searching for the site of a pioneer homestead. The erection of the cross by part of the Alberta Field Force during the 1885 Northwest Rebellion is recorded in several documents, including a story by historian Dr. A. Ronaghan in the Western Produce of May 26, 1966. The discovery was reported to Ronaghan, who delivered the bottle to the Provincial Museum. Representatives of Alberta Culture Historic Sites subsequently visited the site and recovered the remains of the cross.

The three men who made the discovery were originally considered to have tampered with a historic site, but since the site was not known to be historic until the discovery was made and since the artifacts were delivered immediately to the Provincial Museum, charges were dropped. Historic Sites has apparently declared the bottle to be historically insignificant, and there are no plans by the government for protection or development of the site.

Host Robert W. Hendriks, one of the five member Mont Croix Group, explained the significance of the site, its historical background as it relates to the Northwest Rebellion, and its present political status.

Hendriks also explained that in 1995, the site's 110th anniversary, there are plans for a re-enactment of the event. A new cross will be erected on the site, but with one major difference: armed conflict and the subjugation of the First People will not be a focus. Instead, the intent will be to promote peace and harmony among all Canadians, regardless of religion, race or creed, a gentle reminder that more progress can be accomplished by peaceful cooperation than by use of force.

Hendriks also remarked that the Mount Croix site will be one of many tourist attractions planned for the area. Other projects include the rebuilding of the Heinsburg CN water tower, one of only three in existence in Alberta, refurbishing the old CN railway station into a local museum and tea-house, rebuilding a short piece of track on which will be placed railway rolling stock, and constructing a replica of W.B.Cameron's drug-store which was built in Heinsburg in the 1930s. Strong public support was also shown for continued development of the Frog Lake Interpretive Site, a proposed $9 million federal-provincial project currently under consideration.

(Thanks to the Mount Croix Group for the foregoing information.)

Mallaig on track - again

Bruce Campbell
Staff Writer

The Ecole Mallaig Stingers won its fifth straight County Cup Track and Field Banner Thursday at Regional High School but at least this year it wasn't a runaway.

The Stingers won the team championship with 309 points while the Regional Saints made a run at them with 257 points. Elk Point was third with 132.

"Regional had a strong team - it's the most competitive I've seen them in years," said Stingers' coach Ian MacGillivray.

In fact, it wasn't until the final events that the Stingers pulled away, winning four of the eight relay races. Ecole Mallaig swept the 4x100-metre relays in the boys' division, with its junior, intermediate and senior team winning the event.

But most impressive was its victory in the open girls' 4x400-metre relay. The quartet of Renee Dargis, Susanne Catudal, Sharon Dechaine and Carolyn Graus won by approximately 300 metres in a time of 4:43.50, just .17 seconds off a new county record.

Mallaig was led by its senior girls which collected 68 of its 309 points.

Iris Iversen won four medals for Mallaig, winning the senior girls' 100 metres and sweeping the senior girls' field events - the shot put, javelin and discus.

Dargis had three other medals besides her win in the 400-metre relay. She also collected first-place ribbons for her performance in the junior girls' 400 metres, 800 metres, and 200 metres.

But Mallaig wasn't the only school to turn in record performances. In all there were 12 records broken.

Regional's Aaron Plamondon set a record in the intermediate boys' high jump with a leap of 184.2 cm - but he wasn't alone. Greg Dechaine matched his leap. Plamondon was awarded the first-place ribbon because he had fewer attempts than Dechaine.

Other County records set Thursday:

Boys - Gullion Jackson, Vlna, junior 3,000 metres, 10:30.48; Greg Dechaine, Mallaig, intermediate 110-metre hurdles, 15.82; Martin Brousseau, Regional, intermediate discus, 35.38 metres; Sol Ron-aghan, Regional, senior 3,000 metres, 11:02.05.

Girls - Renee Dargis, Mallaig, junior 400 metres, 1:04.84; Rose Catudal, Mallaig; junior 3,000 metres, 14:59.87; Kara Serniak, Elk Point, intermediate 100-metre hurdles, 17.98; Carolyn Graus, Mallaig, intermediate 200 metres, 28:13; Kirsten Sanders, Heinsburg, intermediate long jump, 4.77 metres; Sanders, Heinsburg, intermediate high jump, 152.6 cm; Charlene Krawchuk, Regional, intermediate 3,000 metres, 14:02.46. The top two finishers in each event are eligible to compete in the zone championships Monday in Fort McMurray.

OILMEN HELP OUT - Elk Point Oilmen's Association representative Ian Huffman presented Charlene Baker with two cheques - one for the Elk Point Agricultural Society in the amount of $100 to help defray the cost of the Dinosaur World Tour exhibit at the Elk Point Trade Fair, and one for $50 for operational expenses of the Elk Point Saddle Slickers 4-H Club.

County drops municipal mill rate .5

Recognizing that some county residents are going to experience an increase in taxes due to the new general assessment, the County of St. Paul council agreed Wednesday to drop its municipal mill rate by half a mill.

The decision wasn't made easily at last Wednesday's budget meeting with some councillors questioning whether dropping the mill rate was a good move.

Coun. Frank Schwengler suggested that people whose taxes will increase as a result of the new assessment haven't been paying their "fair share" in the past.

Coun. Bob Smith agreed and questioned whether dropping the mill rate by half a mill would really make much of a difference.

Reeve Robert Bouchard reminded council that the new assessment translates into $441,871 in increased taxes for the county system.

"We're charging people another $440,000. Half a mill isn't a real big break for any individual but it shows we're at least attempting to do something. We can live very, very well on a little bit less."

Administrator Bob Krawchuk who presented the proposed budget for this year which included a .5 decrease in the mill rate, said the county was "lucky it had a general assessment" this year considering the provincial government grant cuts to municipalities. The increased tax base will offset these cuts to some degree.

At one point, Coun. Dwayne Lindberg suggested council could drop the mill rate by one full mill and still maintain the current level of service. One mill translates into $221,000.

Eventually council passed a balanced budget of $6,273,477 showing a .5 mill rate decrease. The biggest chunk of that goes to roads in the amount of $4,132,677. Other items include: general administration - $997,100, Council - $147,000, fire fighting - $73,000, disaster services - $1,000, ambulance service -

$44,500, airport services $33,000, water supply and distribution - $123,500, sanitary sewage and treatment - $51,600, garbage collection and disposal - $74,200, family and community support services - $201,500, community and/or agricultural services - $287,200, recreation-parks facilities and programs - $94,200 and culture (community hall, library, museum, etc.) - $13,000.

Provincial government grants this year include: roads - $542,326, municipal assistance - $911,648, FCSS - $142,000, Agricultural Service Board - $55,000, and Recreation-Parks - $53,000.

Total tax requisition is $3,563,451.

The county has spent $544,000 on equipment purchases to date this year. Included in those purchases are: a new grader, a used grader, a ripper, one-ton truck, two rollers and a weigh scale. Another $18,000 has been set aside in the road budget for a packer and $10,000 in the fire fighting budget for equipment.

Tennis new

Danny Maas

Elk Point Tennis Club

On behalf of the Elk Point Tennis Club, I would like to thank the following companies and organizations for their generous donations: Elk Point Lions Club, Canadian Salt Company, Amoco Petroleum, Elk Point Education Support Council, F.G. Miller Junior-Senior High School. It is because of generous donations from companies and organizations such as these that our non-profit Tennis Club is able to provide the services we do.

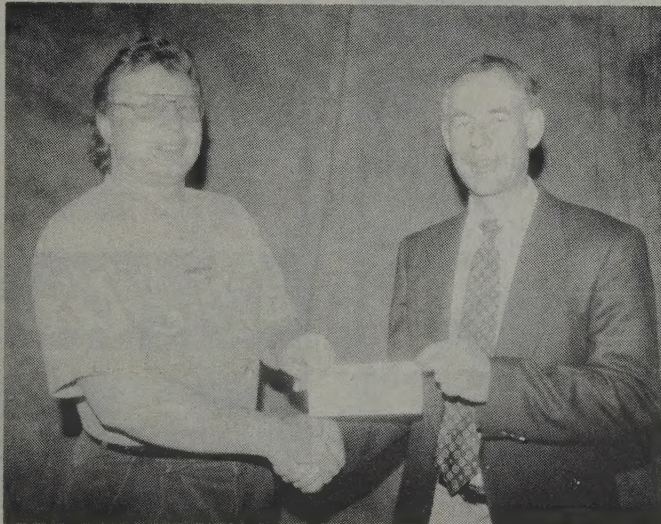

Special thanks also go out to the volunteers who worked at the May 17 bingo. Our next bingo is Saturday, July 31, and we will need some volunteer assistance once again to ensure its success. If you are interested in working, call the Tennis Hotline - 724-2864.

There are still about five spots open for the Adult Beginner Tennis Clinic on Saturday, May 29, 1 to 5 p.m. This clinic will teach you everything you ever wanted to know about tennis and less!

How much would you expect to pay for such a fabulous offer? $200? $100? Well, for this limited time, you can attend this clinic for the low, low price of only $25! Act now, and we'll include the use of a tennis racket, membership in the Tennis Club, a handy tennis club shoe tag, and free instruction for the rest of the season absolutely free! That number to register again is 724-2864. Call now, and I'll see you on the court!

TENNIS CLUB GETS A BOOST - Jim Hawkins was pleased to accept a $50 donation from the Elk Point Oilmen's Association, presented by Ian Huffman, which will go toward the funding for the Summer Instructional Tennis Program.

Hospital updates on palliative care program

Colleen Simon

On behalf of the Pastoral Care Committee, I would like to provide a community update on the Palliative Program which is being organized for our community.

Palliative Care means that the patient / client's treatment is no longer aimed at curing but is aimed at providing comfort. Elk Point Municipal Hospital has amalgamated with St. Paul and area Palliative Care Association in order to share services and resources. Although we will have separate charitable numbers and bank accounts, we believe that program sharing will be cost efficient in these times of funding restraints.

Elk Point Municipal Hospital plans to open a Palliative Care Room which would be utilized for those patients who are diagnosed as palliative. Having a government approved Palliative Care program intact in Elk Point means that those palliative individuals will have access to Home Care, volunteers to assist in the home, direct access to a hospital bed, use of medical equipment if required in the home environment, pastoral care visitation, etc. We are accepting donations for the furnishing of a Palliative Care room, as a home-like atmosphere is the optimal environment for such a room.

Because the Palliative Care Program is a community based program, we will be asking for volunteers and for a volunteer coordinator. It is important to note that volunteers are not expected to be counsellors. Their role is supportive, whereby they may be responsible for assisting with household chores, cooking, grocery shopping or simply keeping company with the palliative client. The volunteer team will be organized in September, however, we are advertising now for the position of volunteer coordinator (please see advertisement on this page).

VOLUNTEER POSITION VACANCY VOLUNTEER COORDINATOR

Summer reading coming soon

The Elk Point Public Library Board and staff would like to extend a warm welcome to our Summer Reading Program coordinator Gayle Fakeley. The theme for this year is Book To The Future. Be sure to get in contact with Gayle at the library for more information on the exciting summer events she will be offering.

The question of the week is, "What year were women in Alberta granted the provincial vote?"

Tidbits

The world needs people
- who cannot be bought;
- whose word is their bond;
- who put character before wealth;
- who have opinions and a will;
- who are larger than their vocations;
- who do not hesitate to take chances;
- who will not lose their individuality in the crowd;
- who will be as honest in small things as in great things;
- who will make no compromise with wrong
- whose ambitions are not confirmed to their own selfish desires;
- who will not say they do it 'because everybody else does it';
- who are true to their friends through good report and evil report, in adversity as well as in prosperity;
- who do not believe that shrewdness, cunning and hardheadedness are the best qualities for winning success;
- who are not ashamed or afraid to stand for the truth when it is unpopular;
- who can say no with emphasis, even though the rest of the world says yes.

- Ted W. Engstrom

Last Wednesday, May 19, and Thursday, May 20, the kindergarten classes of Mrs. Janelle Richard came to the library. They were treated to stories and two puppet shows, Go Away, Bad Dog and Winnie the Pooh And The Pebble Hunt. We enjoyed having them come to the library, and we welcome all classes to come and visit us. To make arrangements for your classes to visit the library, just contact Doreen Mayner at 724-3737.

New Books

One thing we all think of is a fire, and what we should do in case of one. The book Get Out Alive by Frank Fields will give you and your family some lifesaving survival techniques before a fire occurs.

The book Chronic Pain Management has a step-by-step program for the non-medical management of chronic pain, by author Gary Brandstadt.

Mitigating Circumstances by Nancy Rosenberg is a novel that blends suspense with an insider's look at the shifting dynamics between cops and killers, prosecutor and defender, law and order.

The unbeatable master of suspense, Lawrence Sanders, returns in a wickedly wayward case of artist, models and murder in her novel, McNally's Risk.

The phenomenal Cutler series by V.C. Andrews - Dawn Secrets of the Morning, Twi- light's Child and Midnight Whispers held millions of readers spellbound with compelling tales of dark deception and twisted passions. Now Darkest Hour takes us back to the story of Dawn's grandmother, to a girl named Lillian and a thriving plantation called the Meadows... Be the first to read this book!

More books in the "Babysitters' Little Sister" series by Ann Martin have arrived: Karen's Witch, Karen's Roller Skates, Karen's School Picture, Karen's New Year, Karen's Brothers, Karen's Good-bye and Karen's Kittens.

In our Music Cassette collection, we have the following three country music cassettes: Some Gave All by Billy Ray Cyrus, What Do I Do With Me by Tanya Tucker and Michelle Wright.

COMMUNITY SERVICES NEWS

There are all sorts of practical reasons for being active. Regular physical activity can make you feel better, look better and sleep better. It can give you more energy. And it can help you cope better with the stresses of daily life.

This is just fine, but there's no way you'll convince me that all the people who are active these days are out there only because it's good for them. No. There is more to it than this.

If you find an activity you enjoy - and you stay with it for a while - you begin to experience some very special feelings.

Eric Nesterenko, who played with the Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks, described skating: "You're in motion. You can wheel and dive and turn. You can lay yourself into impossible angles, your elbow almost touching the ice as you go."

The Russian poet, Yevgeny Yevtushenko, talks about rock climbing, a sport that offers great exhilarations to match its fierce demands: "I like the feel of the rope binding me to my comrades somewhere near the clouds. I like to feel the sensation of conquering the sky, although, in the final analysis, it always wins the victory over us."

Juha Vastaaenen, a Finnish competitive distance runner, says, "I don't like to run around a track. Outside of competition I never do it. Actually, stadiums are built for spectators, not for runners. We have nature and that's much better."

21 RECREATIONAL

Active living ideas

These are special feelings, but you don't have to be a hockey star, a serious mountain climber, or an Olympic athlete to experience them. Howard Michel, a recreational runner, writes, "I enjoy the very feel of my body and its rhythms, and the love affair that developed between myself and the prairie skies, country roads, grass, ponds and winds."

Walking can evoke these same feelings. Whether it's a city stroll or a walk in the country, there's time for reflection and relaxation...a chance to live for the moment.

In The New Complete Walker, Colin Fletcher writes of hiking: "After the unavoidable shakedown period, you leave yourself free to get on with the important things - b watching cloud shadows race across a mountainside, or passing the time of day with a hummingbird, or discovering that a grasshopper eats grass like spaghetti, or sitting on a peak and thinking of nothing at all except perhaps that it is a wonderful thing to sit on a peak and think of nothing at all."

Everyone can experience the simple pleasure - even the joy - of being in motion. If you are in the early stages of an activity program, you might focus on the practical reasons for being active, but contemplate some of these more elusive things.

Activity isn't just a physical thing - it's mental and physical, therapy and ecstasy.

GRADUATES!

Class historians Tanya Kenyon and Bradley Poitras gave a brief resume of each student as he or she was presented with pins and scrolls by Candace Ference and Renee Anderson. The historians also remarked on the class' life together since their first days in kindergarten, with Mrs. Donna Gulayec and Miss Mann as their first teachers. "Life since we came together is like an extraordinary book - you can't wait to turn to the next page," said Tanya. "We have shared our hopes and dreams, and hope each of you will go on being astonished and delighted by the world around you," Brad concluded.

Melanie Malachowski entertained with her version of Anne Murray's "You Needed Me," dedicated to her classmates.

Denis Jasinsky and Callie Baumgardner, co-presidents of the Class of '93, thanked the community for their support of the fundraising activities the class has undertaken over the past year. Denis also thanked all who had supported the class' version of Safe Grad, Grad Advisor Lawrence Pidluzny, "who let us make our own decisions," and the parents who also supported their efforts. Their term as class presidents had been "sometimes stressful" but always interesting, he concluded. Callie added that she had "many good memories of this class...how special we are to each other. It's not just what we did, but how we did it."

Grad Advisor Pidluzny replied to the message, noting that he "took the back seat as much as I could. I knew things were in good hands." He thanked Denis and Callie for "a tremendous job. A lot of people were pulling different ways...our primary goal was to have them work together." Pidluzny noted that this was one of the first classes ever to have a Safe Grad, and "I know they've hammered out a pretty good deal. I don't know what time they'll get up, but they will be here tomorrow." In the remaining five weeks of school, he urged students to "get down to really hard work to give you an edge getting into the very competitive world of post secondary education. Parents, help them get through this."

Guest speakers were the two students from Germany who have been a part of the class since September, Katharina Hettich and Esther Kraenkel. Katharina declared Canada to be "amazing" with its unspoiled nature and easygoing, humorous people. She found the education system to be quite different and less pressured, and noted that "at home, graduation is not a big event at all." It has been a year of learning "about the different culture, the different country and myself." Coming to Canada has been the realization of a dream for Katharina, and "dreams are one of the important things in life. They keep you going. If you stop dreaming, you stop living. There are so many things every day to learn and experience."

Esther has also learned "so much" about the different culture. "From a European city to an Alberta acreage" was a significant culture shock for the teen. "Canada is so much bigger, there are more miles between towns, schools here have both education and sports." Snowmobiling, hockey and picking rocks were among the other new experiences Esther has had during her year in the district. On the completion of high school, she marveled, "just think what we have accomplished in twelve years of school." She told her classmates that "to progress, we have to take risks...in relationships, jobs, everywhere." Coming to Canada was one of these risks, she said, and "I will profit from this all of my life." Both girls thanked their host families for making their stay in Canada so memorable, and thanked their teachers, friends and the community for making them welcome. The two presented flowers to the Grad Class Presidents, and were given mementos of the occasion in return.

The graduands left the stage to Alabama's "Good-bye," with Joanne and Ed Bepalko, parents of the late Tracy Bepalko, presenting each with a rose as they left the stage. The Bepalkos' message of congratulations ended "Today is a good day to tell you, 'well done.'" That message was echoed by the crowds who encircled the grads after the ceremonies to offer good wishes for the future.

PRESIDENTS WITH CLASS - Grad Class Presidents Callie Baumgardner and Denis Jasinsky wound up their Grade 12 year with thanks to parents, teachers and classmates.
